CLYDE SPARKS TAKES THIRD

GAYNOR BOY PLACES IN DSTRICT ORATORICAL CONTEST.

DECISIONS ARE CLOSE

Gaynor Junior Will Enter Oratorical Contest Next Year—Unionville Girl Wins First Place.

Clyde Sparks of Gaynor returned to his home Saturday night from Unionville, where he had taken third place in the Sixteenth District High School Oratorical Contest the previous night. He was accompanied by his coach, Mrs. Halley Ford, an instructor in the Gaynor High School.

The contest was won by Reba Halman, a junior of the Unionville High School, in a contest which was so close that the decisions of the judges had to be rechecked. The winner of the contest will go to Kansas City April 27 to participate in the Kansas City Star's sectional oratorical contest.

Miss Holman had the same subject as did Sparks, "Development of the Constitution." James Wilson of Bethany, who took second place, spoke on "The Present Significance of the Constitution."

Young Sparks, who is the 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Sparks of Gaynor, came home from the contest with a firm determination to cater the contest next year. He is a junior in the Gaynor High School. He also had the satisfaction of knowing that the large crowd which heard the six orators from this district of seventeen counties, thought there was little to choose among the first three places.

When R. H. Watson, superintendent of the Unionville High School, who was chairman of the contest, announced the judges' decision, it was as follows:

Wilson and Holman tied for first, each with seven points against them; and Sparks and Margaret Hoover of Trenton, tied for second, with eight against each of them. The judges' decisions were then rechecked by Mr. Watson, who found that Sparks had received a first, third and fourth; Wilson a first, second and fourth; and Miss Holman a first, second and third.

The judges were all attorneys. Purley Rinker of Centerville, Ia.; C. B. Burns and Harry West, both of Brookfield, Mo.

MARCH A DRY WARM MONTH

TEMPERATURES WERE MOSTLY MILD AND UNIFORM.

HIGHEST 86 DEGREES

Mean Temperature for Month Was 45.4, or 8.2 Degrees Above Normal.—Mercury to 85 Yesterday.

The weather last month was one of the driest and warmest March months on record, according to J. R. Brink, weather observer. Temperatures were mostly mild and quite uniform, excepting a warm period from March 21 to 25.

The mean temperature was 45.4 while the term mean temperature is 37.2, or March was 8.2 degrees above normal. The highest mean temperature on record here is 52.7 in March, 1910, while the lowest was 27 in 1899.

The temperature extremes were 14 on March 5 and 86 on March 23 and 25. The lowest for any March was 11 degrees below zero in 1913 and the highest was 92 in 1907.

The snowfall during the month was four inches. The precipitation was .96 of an inch. March precipitation has ranged from .17 of an inch in 1918 to 4.18 inches in 1901.

There were nineteen clear days, four partly cloudy days and eight cloudy days during the last month.

The temperature yesterday reached 85.

Mr. Brink said the earliest last killing frost during the spring of any one year was on March 31, 1925, while the latest killing frost was during 1923 when it occurred on May 9. In other words, the length of the growing season was longest during 1925 while it was shortest during 1923.

This is in addition to the four mills authorized by law.

The other proposition is to detach ten acres from school district No. 82, on the Rockyford farm, a short distance east of Maryville, and attach it to the Maryville school district.

George H. Meek, Hal Hooker and Miss Bertha Anderson will be the judges of the election.

School elections will be general throughout the county tomorrow.

MUST LEARN INDIA TONGUE

MISSIONARY SAYS THIS IS NECESSARY TO "GET ALONG."

VISITS AT MARCELS

Miss Vivian Trimble, Missionary in India for Seven Years, Is Home on Leave of Absence.

Miss Vivian Trimble, who has been a missionary in India for seven years, this morning advised anyone who expected to stay in India for any length of time "to learn the custom of the people if you expect to get along."

Miss Trimble has been doing missionary work in the Punjab province of India with the United Presbyterian Mission and is at present on a leave of absence for a year. She is a guest at the home of the Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Marcell here and expects to return to India in September.

Miss Trimble's home is at College Springs, Ia., and she is visiting with her father, G. N. Trimble.

Mrs. Marcell and Miss Trimble were roommates at the time Mrs. Marcell was teaching school in Southern California. It has been eleven years since they had met.

In an interview this morning Miss Trimble said it was almost impossible to generalize on the customs, language and religion of the peoples of India because there are so many provinces where conditions are entirely different and what might be true of one province is not true of India as a country.

"If you are going to live in India for a length of time it is well to learn the custom of the people if you expect to get along," Miss Trimble said. "It is in poor judgment to break customs there because it encourages trouble.

Women Protected.

Women in India are protected whenever they travel any distance and they marvel at the courage of Miss Trimble because she goes about without escort. But the missionary said she had never been threatened or endangered. She sleeps outdoors when in India. Miss Trimble was asked if she were not afraid of being robbed during her sleep some night.

She replied: "Oh, I'm not afraid. I would much rather been attacked by thieves out in the open where I could run, than be in a locked house.

Miss Trimble's work is among the low caste people who are completely ignorant of Christ and not true-hearted Christians.

She has experienced few revolutions and has in no way been molested by foreign agitators. Riots frequently occur between the Hindus and the Mohammedans, each being bitter against one another.

"There are several Ford cars in the Province where I work. When some of the Hindu or Mohammed men get drunk they shoot at the tires for the sport of it regardless of who is in the car," Miss Trimble said, "I can't appreciate the men over there very much anyway."

Learning the languages of India, of which there are many, is a big part of the work. The characters are similar to the Chinese and it required five and one-half years of study for Miss Trimble to become familiar with them.

Brought Home Curios.

Miss Trimble has brought back with her many curios which include the handwork of India, gold and silver bracelets and rings and other unique pieces of work.

"I brought back with me the cover (kes) which I use on my bed. When I was packing it in my trunk a native asked:

"You're not going to take that to America with you, are you? You like it too well. If you do you will give it away.

"I haven't given it away yet and I don't think I ever shall because the Indian was right, I like it too well."

Miss Trimble wears a silver bracelet which was given her by one of her Bible pupils just before sailing for America. The missionary has not taken the bracelet off her arm since leaving India.

One of the natives wanted to know if America was as far away as one of the towns in the Province, which was a distance of forty miles.

Complaints Against Assessments Heard

County Equalization Is in Session Today—Fill on Carr Bridge Road Is Requested.

A number of complaints were heard up to early this afternoon by the county board of equalization in session today. These complaints were relative to assessments, contending they should be reduced. A number were taken under advertisement while the following were acted on:

Green township—Mrs. Charles Ross, reduced to $200; G. J. Hickerson increased $200; R. H. Smith assessed $100; J. P. McHanus reduced to $200; R. I. Bilby reduced to $200; Mayme Saunders reduced to $200. The last four were assessments made necessary on account of some property burning down in Quitman. The board will be in session tomorrow and Wednesday.

A delegation composed of Fred Ager and Emmett F. Scott of the township board, and Herman Heitman, Frank Meyers and Harry Colter, appeared before the county court today relative to a fill on the new road near the Carr bridge.

PROBE LEASES TO SINCLAIR

GOVERNMENT TO INVESTIGATE CONTRACT MADE BY FALL.

DEFENSE IS PLANNED

Sinclair's Counsel Is Getting Ready for Trial Which Starts at Washington Wednesday.

Washington, April 2.—The justice department is investigating the means by which the Midwest Refining Company acquired drilling rights in the Salt Creek field adjoining the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve in Wyoming, it was learned today.

The justice department also is investigating the sale of government royalty oil from the Salt Creek fields to the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Company under contract made by Albert B. Fall when he was Secretary of Interior.

Both matters are understood to have been discussed at a recent cabinet meeting, but the justice department declined to confirm this or a report that President Coolidge requested the inquiry.

Sinclair obtained the contract in the Salt Creek fields six months after Fall had received from him $223,000 of Liberty bonds, according to testimony before the Teapot Dome committee. The Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Company of Indiana, which also controls the Midwest.

Oil Contract Renewed.

Secretary of Interior Work recently renewed the Sinclair Crude Oil contract, explaining he had no choice in the matter under terms agreed to by Fall and Sinclair.

Senator Walsh expressed the opinion that the committee could not investigate all leases the government granted Sinclair, while Chairman Nye has indicated the committee might investigate all leases. Walsh has given his information on the lease situation to the justice department.

Plan Sinclair Defense.

Washington, April 2.—Defense strategy of Harry F. Sinclair, oil man, scheduled to go on trial here Wednesday on a charge of conspiring to defraud the government, was planned by his lawyers today.

Martin W. Littleton, Sinclair's chief attorney, came from New York to confer with George P. Hoover, Washington lawyer.

Hoover indicated the line the defense would follow, would depend upon the conference with Littleton and the character of the defense deposition given by former Secretary of Interior Fall, ill in El Paso.

The trial of both Sinclair and Fall, indicated three years ago in connection with the Teapot Dome lease, was scheduled to start today but Justice Jennings Bailey in District of Columbia Supreme Court three weeks ago granted an indefinite postponement to Fall because of his illness, and postponed the Sinclair trial until Wednesday.

Hoover indicated today's conference would determine if Sinclair shall seek another delay on the ground that his lawyers have not had time to prepare their case under the changed circumstances.

LINK MILLER IN OIL BONDS

FORMER ALIEN CUSTODIAN SUBPOENAED BY COMMITTEE.

ONE CASE IS PENDING

Delay Granted So Appearance Won't Prejudice His Appeal on Conviction in Conspiracy Case.

Washington, Apr. 2.—Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian has been subpoenaed to appear before the Senate Teapot Dome committee, Senator Walsh of Montana announced today.

Walsh said Miller had been requested to appear tomorrow but that Miller had asked and had been granted a week's delay.

Miller was convicted several months ago in New York of conspiracy to defraud the government while he held the alien property post.

Think He Knows About Bonds.

"There have been reports that Colonel Miller knew something about the Continental Trading Company bonds" Walsh said.

Committee members have addressed questions to witnesses in recent hearings seeking to learn if Miller aided Will Hays, former chairman of the Republican national committee, in disposing of the $160,000 of bonds which Harry Sinclair donated to the Republican committee.

Three witnesses have been subpoenaed for a hearing tomorrow: Harry M. Blair, C. H. Huston and Birch Helms, all of New York. Blair was treasurer of the eastern headquarters in the 1920 campaign and Huston was his assistant. Helms is a Texas oil man.

May Grant More Delay.

Sen. Nye asked A. D. Lasker, former chairman of the U. S. shipping board, when he was on the stand, if he ever heard of Miller receiving $150,000 in Liberty bonds.

Walsh said that Miller sought the week's delay so that his appearance might not prejudice the appeal he has filed with the Supreme Court in connection with his New York conviction. He said he expected a decision within a week.

If the court does not act within a week a further delay will be granted Miller, Walsh said.

Kansas City Court of Appeals Upholds Decisions Rendered by Circuit Court Here.

The Kansas City Court of Appeals today affirmed the decision of the circuit court here in the cases of Lawson McIntyre against the Burlington Junction Shipping Association, and Fannie Fields, administratrix, against the estate of Joseph M. Henderson, according to word received here by the attorneys, Cook & Cummins and Ellis G. Cook, in these cases.

McIntyre in coure here won a verdict for $1297 for a car load of hogs which were shipped for him by the Burlington Junction shipping association. The money for this car load was received by the shipping association and deposited in the Northwestern Bank, Burlington Junction. The shipping association's check to McIntyre was issued but the bank had failed. The Kansas City Court upheld the lower court here.

In the case of Fannie Fields, administratrix, against the estate of Joseph M. Henderson, the defendants won the case here when attachment was sought on ten ares of Henderson's land. The decision of te Kansas City Court affirmed the lower court here.

Motion for a New Remus Trial Denied

Lima, O., April 2.—George Remus, millionaire Cincinnati bootlegger, ordered released Friday on a write of habeas corpus from Lima state hospital, gained a step toward freedom today when court of appeals judges here denied the motion of E. M. Botkin, Allen county prosecutor, for a new trial.

The motion contended the three appellate judges, Phil M. Crowe, Kent W. Hughes and Charles W. Justice, had acted against the weight of the evidence and had no jurisdiction to hear Remus plea.

Meanwhile Remus still is in the hospital.

Charles H. Elston, Remus' attorney, intends to get in touch with L. C. Davis, assistant attorney general at Columbus, on the question of bail and the judges indicated they would remain at the court house all afternoon to hear anything further from counsel.

CARRY ON IN WILLIS' PLACE

DAWES AND LOWDEN APPEAR AS LIKELY CAMPAIGN SUCCESSORS.

NO HOOVER ALLIANCE

Late Senator's Manager Announces Battle Against Hoover Will Be Continued Vigorously.

Columbus, O., April 2.—Vice-President Charles G. Dawes and former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, appeared today as likely successors to the late Senator Frank B. Willis, in the Ohio Republican Presidential campaign.

While Dawes did not enter the state contest, Willis' successful convention delegates could be instructed for him, it was pointed out.

Although the course to be pursued by the Willis supporters will not be known until after the senior Ohio Senator's funeral tomorrow, the Willis campaign will be carried on, with either Dawes or Lowden as the beneficiary, it was believed.

A determined drive has been started by friends of Dawes to consolidate the sentiment of the Willis forces for him, and it was understood today the Vice-President had been asked not to disavow the move.

On the other hand, thirty-four of the Willis candidates for national convention delegates have endorsed Lowden as their second choice, and farm bloc leaders have encouraged the Lowden candidacy, believing he would prove a strong standard bearer.

Willis supporters were generally agreed that either Dawes or Lowden would prove formidable against Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, who was contesting with Senator Willis for control of the convention delegation and popular endorsement.

Inasmuch as Senator Willis, in his campaign speeches, stressed fundamental Republican policies and doctrines, Lowden could easily continue the fight as the Ohio Senator had planned it.

Carmi A. Thompson, the late Senator's campaign manager, has announced the battle against Hoover will continue vigorously. The announcement had been interpreted as a flat statement there will be no alliance between Hoover and Willis supporters.

Some political circles were hoping this would come about so the opposing factions could get together on a mutual candidate.

Move Willis' Body to Wesleyan Chapel

Body to Lay in State at Place Where He Died Until Funeral Services Tomorrow.

Delaware, O., April 2.—State and Nation joined this Ohio city today in mourning the death of Senator Frank B. Willis, Ohio's favorite son candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination.

His body will be removed from the home this afternoon to the Gray Chapel at Ohio Wesleyan University, where he died suddenly Friday night. A military escort will accompany the coffin. There it will lay in state until tomorrow afternoon when the funeral service will be held.

Yesterday hundreds of townspeople, many who knew Willis when he was studying law here, walked past the coffin and paid their final respects.

Several national and state leaders probably will be here today and will attend the funeral tomorrow.

MENTION FESS FOR CHAIRMAN

OHIOAN IS ADVOCATED FOR REPUBLICAN KEYNOTER.

SEVERAL CONSIDERED

Members of Republican National Committee Are in Session in Kansas City Today.

Kansas City, April 2.—Members of the Republican national committee in session here today had before them a half dozen possibilities for the temporary chairmanship of the Republican national convention which meets in Kansas City in June.

The committee adjourned at noon until 3 o'clock without having discussed the appointment of temporary convention chairman, according to William M. Butler, chairman of the committee.

Informal discussions were held as the committee prepared to open its afternoon session in which the name of Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio was most persistently mentioned. Western members of the national committee were said to be lining up for Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas and former Senator Irving Lenroot of Wisconsin.

Other candidates mentioned as the committee prepared to resume its session were: Senator George H. Moses, New Hampshire, Senator Charles S. Deneen of Illinois, Senator Frederick Gillette of Massachusetts and Representative J. Q. Tilson of Connecticut.

Although committee members refused to discuss the topic of the temporary chairman they will select at their meeting, it was understood that Hubert E. Work, secretary of the Interior and a Hoover leader, are backing Fess.

Work's advocacy of Fess was viewed by some as a sedative measure taken by Work for the benefit of the Ohio leaders, recently bereft of their presidential candidate, Senator Willis. Fess is another "native son" of the Ohioans and his name as temporary chairman would have a tendency fo swing some Ohio Hoover opposition to his side, it was believed.

Besides appointing a temporary chairman of the national meeting, the committee will appoint a sergeant-at arms; select clerks of the convention; discuss the housing problem further, and arrange for distribution of tickets.

Report That Kellogg Will Resign Denied

Reports Had Been Published That Secretary of State Would Be Succeeded by Dwight Morrow.

Washington, Apr. 2.—Emphatic denial that Secretary Kellogg contemplates resigning before March 4 next was issued today by the state department. Published reports that he was about to be succeeded by Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, were completely discredited by the department.

Lindbergh Hops Off For San Diego Today

El Paso, Tex., Apr. 2.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh took off from Fort Bliss airport here at 6:45 a. m., today enroute to San Diego, Cal. Although he inquired the distance to Lordsburgh, N. M., he said he hoped to make his first stop at Tucson, Ariz.

THE ONLY DAILY PAPER IN NODAWAY COUNTY

THE PRESIDENTIAL TOLL.

The sudden death of United States Senator Willis of Ohio re-emphasizes the terrible toll being exacted of presidential candidates and of presidents under present day practices. Senator Willis, a man in the prime of life intellectually who had served his state as representative in the legislature, as congressman, as governor, and as United States senator, had declared himself a candidate for the Republican nomination for the presidency.

He had a large following in Ohio but there were those who did not accept his candidacy as bona fide and believed he only wanted to control the delegation in the national convention. So Secretary Hoover was induced to enter the state primary and make a fight for the Ohio delegates. This put Senator Willis on the defensive in his own state and he had undertaken a bold and aggressive campaign. To use his own words, it was to be "no kid glove affair."

The strain of an aggressive speaking campaign in a state primary is terrific and few men past fifty are able to go through one without breaking. Senator Willis was a well preserved man. He had never abused himself and was apparently in good fettle. But the crash came just as it has come to others.

The old theory that the office of president should seek the man is the better one now. With modern methods of distributing news and information, every man who is big enough to be President of the United States is known to ninety-nine per cent o f the people. History does not record that great speakers have had any great success as presidential candidates. Mr. Willis was an attractive speaker. He placed former President Harding in nomination at Chicago in such a way as to attract much attention to his candidate who went into the convention practically without support. But the American people will attach to the great office of president a certain dignity that does not harmonize well with speaking tours and personal campaigns.

The death of Senator Willis leaves Hoover practically heir to the Ohio delegates. He is entered in a state primary and it is perhaps now too late to enter another candidate. Incidentally, it is claimed by Hoover's friends that he needs only a few more delegates to make his nomination certain on the first ballot. If he gets Ohio, it will give him a big boost. The passing of Willis also creates a vacancy in the Senate from Ohio which Governor Donahey may be called on to fill and this would add one more democrat and leave one less republican in the Senate.

Maryville householders should convert their lawns into a conspicuous asset as no feature of a city makes more of an impression on visitors than neat, well kept houses and yards. Denver has received a vast amount of advertising from its miles of lawns that look all through the summer as if they had been to the barber shop every day, so beautifully are they trimmed and combed. Kansas City, according to the Times, is making an effort to get their householders to keep neat lawns as many visitors will be in that city in June for the Republican national convention.

H. R. H. Thrown Again.

Hawthornhill, Eng., April 2.—The Prince of Wales was thrown twice today while riding in the steeple chase at Hawthorn Hill, near Maidenhead. He was reported unhurt. It made the Prince's fourth and fifth fall in three days and the 23rd and 24th falls of his career.

New York to Elect Delegates Tomorrow

Albany, N. Y., April 22.—Voters of New York will go to the the polls tomorrow to select delegates and their alternates to the national conventions and new state and county committees.

There are less than a dozen contests throughout the state, all of them purely local in character.

On the Democratic side it will make no difference who wins, as the organization candidates and their opponents are pledged to support the nomination of Gov. Smith at the Houston convention.

There are no contests on the Republican side either in which a presidential candidacy is involved. Charles D. Hilles, national committeeman, consistently has urged an "uninstructed" delegation to the national convention.

Allison May File for Lieutenant-Governor

Rolla, Mo., Apr. 2.—E. W. Allison former speaker pro tem of the Missouri House of Representatives and three times a member of the House, indicated here today he planned soon to file declaration of candidacy for the Democratic nomination as Lieutenant Governor. He was endorsed for the position by the Democratic county conventions of Phelps and Maries counties the latter being his native county. He is an attorney here.

Threatening Notes to Kirksville Residents

Kirksville, Mo., April 2.—Two residents of Kirksville received blackhand notes demanding $500, it became known today.

It was believed both letters were written by a woman. Police were inclined to accept the theory that the letters were intended as a hoax.

One was addressed to John M. Wilds, retired, and the other to Byron Beatty, druggist. Wilds ignored the demand for money received by him while Beatty went armed to the scene where he was told to leave the money, but the writer failed to show up.

59 Killed, 146 Injured in Smyrna Earthquake

London, Apr. 2.—Fifty-five persons were killed and 146 injured when an earthquake damaged Smyrna Saturday a Constantinople dispatch to the Daily Telegraph said today.

The village of Tourbalis was wrecked while Aidin, Manissa, Tire and Eudemiche were damaged to some extent. The earthquake was felt in all surrounding localities, reports said.

Fall Ends Deposition Regarding Oil Lease

El Paso, Tex., April 2.—Former Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall will leave for California in a few days in an effort to regain his health. Fall's deposition in the Harry Sinclair Teapot Dome trial was completed here yesterday.

Fall was relieved when the deposition was completed.

"I am tired, but I came out all right. It's a relief that the hearing is over," he declared.

The former cabinet official showed the same enthusiasm at the conclusion of the trial as he did when the deposition was started.

Throughout the ordeal he answered questions willingly and at times even volunteered testimony.

That Fall may talk on various government matters still further was indicated by a statement made at the conclusion of the deposition.

"There were some matters in the deposition which I felt should have amplification, but I did not say as much about them as I wanted to because of legal objections. However, I am enough of a lawyer to realize these objections were well taken. I may make statements about these matters at the proper time."

"I think the deposition will be satisfactory to the court and to the public," he added.

The Campaign Log

APRIL 2
By United Press

The arrangements committee for the Republican national convention met in Kansas City. It was considered likely that a temporary chairman for the convention—the keynote speaker—would be selected.

Primaries were held today in Michigan. Herbert Hoover and Al Smith were unopposed as presidential nominees.

Delegates pledged to the late Senator Frank Willis will wait until after Willis' funeral Tuesday to decide where their support will go at the state primaries. Frank O. Lowden workers, it is understood, may attempt to get the delegation to swing to the former Illinois Governor.

Delegates for the biennial Democratic convention in Maine started arriving today. The convention opens Tuesday. There was considerable discussion as to whether the delegation to be selected for the Democratic national convention would be pledged.

Only five contests are listed for the New York state primary tomorrow at which time delegates will be selected for the Republican and Democratic national conventions. There are three Republican contests and two Democratic.

Forest Fires Rage in National Reserve

Rangers, Volunteers and Air Corps Used to Fight Flames in Four Arkansas Counties.

Hot Springs, Ark., April 2.—U. S. rangers, volunteers and an air corps unit of the National Guard today were fighting damaging forest fires in four timbered counties of the national reserve.

Officials of the U. S. Forest Service here stated approximately fifty fires had been spotted in the area within the last ten days and blamed incendiarism as the cause.

Damage and extent of the fires has not been estimated, officers told the United Press today, saying "we have been too busy fighting fires to check up on the loss."

A large fire was reported still out of control in an area on the Montgomery-Polk county line, sweeping over Dutch Creek, White Oak and Petit Jane mountains.

Exertion in Cranking His Car Causes Death

People Fail to Stand Up for God, Lakin Says

Don't Hesitate, When Discouraged, But Take Strength in God, Christian Minister Urges.

People of today "lack courage to stand up for God and the right," the Rev. L. E. Lakin of Kansas City said yesterday morning at the First Christian Church in his serman, "When Duty Calls."

The text was taken from Matthew 8:21, "Follow Me, and then answer Suffer Me first to go and bury My Father."

The Reverend Mr. Lakin pointed out that "neglect is our most expressive indulgence," declaring when duty calls we hesitate and lose our opportunity."

The Reverend Mr. Lakin cited the example of the crowd which decided the contest between the true and the false prophets. Elijah asked the soul-reaching question, "How long go you limping between two sides and why?" The question is timely, the pastor said.

"It means to fight; it means a battle royal. It means to go against the tide. It means loss, maybe sacrifice," and then he declared, "we are moral cowards."

The Reverend Mr. Lakin told about the time he heard ex-Governor Folk of this state speak in Kansas City a few years ago. The Governor told of a letter he received from a mother. The husband had been saved from drink and the dens. The children since had been clothed and given a home. The letter was a mother's "thank you." Governor Folk commented, "I would rather have one such letter than to have the praises of a thousand lawbreakers."

This example was pointed out by the speaker as " the courage to stand up and stand out and stand for God and for the right."

The Reverend Mr. Lakin said there is a hesitation in discouragement. Paul suffered at this point. God came to his rescue and Paul labored on with marvelous results.

"People are grouping about today as if darkness had settled over the land at mid-day," the pastor believed. "People are down-hearted. They are discouraged. Affairs of state are hopeless, they say. They say there isn't such a thing as morals any more. And men are standing up and arguing that even the church must be supplanted. Men are discouraged, I say, and broken. Our morals are at the lowest ebb.

"Here is the place to begin. Get up, sit up, stand up and weep no more; be strong. God is speaking and He is with us."

The Reverend Mr. Lakin cited the moment of hesitancy in the life of Christ when he stood in the shadow of the cross saying "Father, deliver Me from this hour," and then he prayed and found strength.

Peace of God Is a Spiritual Condition

The Rev. Mr. Dewar of Presbyterian Says Peace of God Is a Gift Through Christ.

"The peace of God is both a gift and an achievement," the Rev. William N. Dewar, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, told his congregation last night, adding "it is a gift through Christ and an achievement by faith." His sermon was "The Peace of God" and the text was taken from Phil. 4:-6:7, "Be careful for nothing; but in everything for prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God. And the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus."

The Reverend Mr. Dewar pointed out that the peace of God is a spiritual condition based on a spiritual unity of soul with Christ. It relates itself to all life and life's experiences; based on Christ's view of mankind, the present world, and the world to come.

"The spiritual mind is life and peace," the Reverend Mr. Dewar said. "The peace of life is related to the outward expression of the soul's life in good work," he said in exemplifying that the ministry of Christ is known by His works.

Through Sufferings Jesus Became Savior

The Rev. Guy L. Prather in Palm Sermon Says Suffering Is a Universal Human Experience.

"Suffering is a universal human experience," the Rev. Guy L. Prather said in his Palm Sunday sermon yesterday morning at the First Baptist Church. He declared that Jesus identified Himself with man and explored the depths of human anguish, and through His sufferings was able to be a perfect Saviour.

The attendance at Sunday school yesterday was 173. A contribution of $33.15 was made toward the Parsonage Fund. With other amounts which will be coming in it is hoped to pay off the last of the Parsonage note.

The B. Y. P. U. had an attendance of twenty-seven. Melvin Vail led the meeting. The topic was "The Consecrated Life."

Home-Making Hands We Enjoy Serving

Behind our busy counter the World seems made entirely of hands. Daintily gloved fingers that unerringly find their way to articles of beauty and distinction, hands roughened by housework, childish fingers that tug impatiently, men's hands that grope uncertainly among women's things.

We serve a world of hands, but it is the home-making hands that we strive most earnestly to please—hands that must cook dinner, smooth childish bumps and coax smartness into a made-over frock.

That you may bring beauty to your home, we scour the markets of the world. That you may combine your love of nice things with a praiseworthy desire for economy, we mark our merchandise on the lowest-possible-price basis.

ERNEST HEATH, Sergeant of the Homicide Bureau

THE STORY THUS FAR

Skeel's finger prints were found in the apartment of the murdered Margaret Odell, but Vance does not believe him guilty. It is proved later that Mannix, Cleaver and Dr. Lindquist had been lying about their whereabouts the night of the murder. The truth comes out that Mannix had been calling on a young lady in the apartment adjoining the "Canary's"; that Cleaver had been in the building around midnight, and that Dr. Lindquist, knowing Spotswoode was calling on Margaret Odell, had planned in a jealous fit to kill him. But this plan was frustrated when Spotswoode jumped into a cab. Skeel telephones that he will tell who committed the murder, and Markham, Vance and Heath wait for him in the district attorney's office.

CHAPTER 40.

A few minutes later Heath turned abruptly and went out into the hall. We could hear him calling to Snitkin down the elavator shaft, but when he came back into the office his expression told us that as yet there was no news of Skeel.

"I'll call up the bureau," he decided, "and see what Guilfoyle had to report. At least we'll know then when the Dude left his house."

But when the sergeant had been connected with police headquarters he was informed that Guilfoyle had as yet made no report.

"That's damn funny," he commented, hanging up the receiver.

It was now twenty minutes past ten. Markham was growing restive. The tenacity with which the Canary murder case had resisted all his efforts toward a solution had filled him with discouragement; and he had hoped, almost desperately, that this morning's interview with Skeel would clear up the mystery, or at least supply him with information on which definite action could be based. Now, with Skeel late for this important appointment, the strain was becoming tense.

He pushed back his chair nervously and, going to the window gazed out into the dark haze of fine rain. When he returned to his desk his face was set.

"I'll give our friend until half past ten," he said grimly. "If he isn't here then, Sergeant, you'd better call up the local station-house and have them send a patrol-wagon for him."

There was another few minutes of silence. Vance lolled in his chair with half-closed eyes, but I noticed that, though he still held his cigaret, he was not smoking. His forehead was puckered by a frown, and he was very quiet. I knew that some unusual problem was occupying him. His lethargy had in it a quality of intentness and concentration.

As I watched him he suddenly sat up straight, his eyes open and alert. He tossed his dead cigaret into the receiver with a jerky movement that attested to some inner excitation.

"Oh, my word!" he exclaimed. "It really can't be, y' know! And yet"—his face darkened—"and yet, by Jove, that's it! . . . What an ass I've been—what an unutterable ass! . . . Oh."

He sprang to his feet; then stood looking down at the floor like a man dazed, afraid of his own thoughts.

"Markham, I don't like it—I don't like it at all." He spoke almost as if he were frightened. "I tell you, there's something terrible going on — something uncanny. The thought of it makes my flesh creep. . . . I must be getting old and sentimental," he added, with an effort at lightness; but the look in his eyes belied his tone. "Why didn't I see this thing yesterday? . . . But I let it go on. . . ."

We were all staring at his in amazement. I had never seen him affected in this way before, and the fact that he was habitually so cynical and aloof, so adament to emotion and impervious to outside influences, gave his words and actions an impelling and impressive quality.

After a moment he shook himself slightly, as if to throw on the pall of horror that had descended upon him, and, stepping to Markham's desk, he leaned over, resting on both hands.

"Don't you see?" he asked. "Skeel's not coming. No use to wait—no use of our coming here in the first place. We have to go to him. He's waiting for us. . . Come! Get your hat."

Markham had risen, and Vance took him firmly by the arm.

"You needn't argue," he persisted. "You'll have to go to him sooner or later. You might as well go now, don't y' know.—My word! What a situation!"

He had led Markham, astonished and but mildly protesting, into the middle of the room, and he now beckoned to Heath with his free hand.

"You, too, Sergeant. Sorry you had all this trouble. My fault. I should have foreseen this thing. A devilish shame; but my mind was on Monets all yesterday afternoon. . . You know where Skeel lives?"

Heath nodded mechanically. He had fallen under the spell of Vance's strange and dynamic importunities.

"Then don't wait.—And, Sergeant! You'd better bring Burke or Snitkin along. They won't be needed here—nobody'll be needed here any more today."

Heath looked inquiringly to Markham for counsel; his bewilderment had thrown him into a state of mute indecision. Markham nodded his approval of Vance's suggestions, and, without a word, slipped into his raincoat.

A few minutes later the four of us, accompanied by Snitkin, had entered Vance's car and were lurching uptown. Swacker had been sent home; the office had been locked up; and Burke and Emery had departed for the homicide bureau to await further instructions.

Skeel lived in 35th Street, near the East River, in a dingy, but once pretentious house, which formerly had been the residence of some old family of the better class. It now had an air of dilapidation and decay; there was rubbish in the areaway; and a large sign announcing rooms for rent was posted in one of the ground-floor windows.

As we drew up before it Heath sprang to the street and looked sharply about him. Presently he espied an unkemp man slouching in the doorway of a grocery-store diagonally opposite, and beckoned to him. The man shambled over furtively.

"It's all right, Guilfoyle," the sergeant told him. "We're paying the Dude a social visit. What's the trouble? Why didn't you report?"

Guilfoyle looked surprised.

"I was told to phone in when he left the house, sir. But he ain't left yet. Mallory tailed him home last night round ten o'clock, and I relieved Mallory at nine this morning. The Dude's still inside."

"Of course he's still inside, Sergeant," said Vance, a bit impatiently. "Where's his room situated, Guilfoyle?" asked Heath.

"Second floor, at the back."

"Right. We're going in.—Stand by."

"Look out for him," admonished Guilfoyle. "He's got a gat."

Heath took the lead up the worn steps which led from the pavement to the little vestibule. Without ringing, he roughly grasped the door-knob and shook it. The door was unlocked, and we stepped into the stuffy lower hallway.

A bedraggled woman of about 40, in a disreputable dressing-gown, and with hair hanging in strings over her shoulders, emerged suddenly from a rear door and came toward us unsteadily, her bleary eyes focused on us with menacing resentment.

"Say!" she burst out, in a rasping voice. "What do youse mean by bustin' in like this on a respectable lady?" And she launched forth upon a stream of profane epithets.

Heath, who was nearest her, placed his large hand over her face, and gave her a gentle but firm shove backward.

"You keep outa this, Cleopatra!" he advised her, and began to ascend the stairs.

The second-floor hallway was dimly lighted by a small flickering gas-jet, and at the rear we could distinguish the outlines of a single door set in the middle of the wall.

"That'll be Mr. Skeel's abode," observed Heath.

He walked up to it and, dropping one hand in his right coat-pocket, turned the knob. But the door was locked. He then knocked violently upon it, and placing his ear to the jamb, listened. Snitkin stood directly behind him, his hand also in his pocket. The rest of us remained a little in the rear.

Heath had knocked a second time when Vance's voice spoke up from the semi-darkness.

"I say, Sergeant, you're wasting time with all that formality."

"I guess you're right," came the answer after a moment of what seemed unbearable silence.

Heath bent down and looked at the lock. Then he took some instrument from his pocket and inserted it into the keyhole.

"You're right," he repeated, "The key's gone."

He stepped back and, balancing on his toes like a sprinter, sent his shoulders crashing against the panel directly over the knob. But the lock held.

"Come on, Snitkin," he ordered.

The two detectives hurled themselves against the door. At the third onslaught there was a splintering of wood and a tearing of the lock's bolt through the moulding. The door swung drunkenly inward.

The room was in almost complete darkness. We all hesitated on the threshold, while Snitkin crossed warily to one of the windows and sent the shade clattering up. The yellow-gray light filtered in, and the objects of the room at once took definable form. A large, old-fashioned bed projected from the wall on the right.

"Look!" cried Snitkin, pointing; and something in his voice sent a shiver over me.

We pressed forward. On the foot of the bed, at the side toward the door, sprawled the crumpled body of Skeel. Like the Canary, he had been strangled. His head hung back over the foot-board, his face a hideous distortion. His arms were outstretched and one leg trailed over the edge of the mattress, resting on the floor.

"Thuggee," murmured Vance. "Lindquist mentioned it. Curious!"

Heath stood staring fixedly at the body, his shoulders hunched. His normal rudiness of complexion was gone, and he seemed like a man hypnotized.

"Mother o' God!" he breathed, awe-stricken. And, with an involuntary motion he crossed himself.

Markham was shaken also. He set his jaw rigidly.

"You're right, Vance." His voice strained and unnatural. "Something sinister and terrible has been going on here. . . There's a fiend loose in this town—a werewolf."

"I wouldn't say that, old man." Vance regarded the murdered Skeel critically. "No, I wouldn't say that. Not a werewolf. Just a desperate human being. A man of extremes, perhaps—but quite rational, and logical—oh, how deuced logical!"

John A. Rankin Dies Suddenly Saturday

Prominent Banker and Farmer Was Thought at First to Have Met Death by Drowning.—Funeral Tuesday.

Tarkio, Mo., April 2.—John A. Rankin, 70, prominent banker and farmer of this city, died about noon Saturday while watching for muskrats which were burrowing in a dam near a pond on one of his farms near here. It was thought at first Mr. Rankin met his death by drowning when the bank of the pond crumbled, pitching him in the water from which he was unable to extricate himself. Later it was said death was caused by a stroke.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at the United Presbyterian Church here at 2:30 o'clock. Dr. C. M. Laing, pastor of the church, will be assisted by Dr. J. A. Thompson, president of Tarkio College, and Dr. J. B. Work, faculty member of the college.

Mr. Rankin was president of the First National Bank, and of the Rankin Farms of this city and was one of the prominent stockmen of this state.

He was active in civic and church affairs. He had avoided holding office, however. Mr. Rankin was known widely for his gifts to Tarkio college, founded by his father, the late David Rankin, known as the greatest individual corn grower in the world.

Mr. Rankin is survived by his widow, an invalid, two sons, Walter Rankin, who assisted his father in the manngement of the Rankin farms; David A. Rankin, head of the Rankin Underwriters, Inc., St. Joseph, and three daughters, Mrs. Mabel Crawford of Tarkio, Mrs. Jason McMillan of Norfolk, Va., and Mrs. Clayton McMillen, Cedarville, O. The latter two sisters are married to brothers.

Controlled 5,000 Acres.

Rankin controlled approximately 5,000 acres of land, part of the vast estate left by his father. He actively managed all phases of the farm work. Due to confusion in identification, the bank president went by the name of John A. Rankin, sr., and a cousin, John A. Rankin, farmer near this city, added "junior."

Of the four original heirs of David Rankin, only one, Mrs. Esther Giffin of Tarkio, a half sister of John Rankin, now is living. W. F. Rankin, a son, died some time ago. Mrs. J. F. Hanna of Riverside, Cal., died last Wednesday.

David Rankin, father of John A. Rankin, died October 18, 1910, after amassing an estate valued at 4 million dollars and winning nation wide notice for Atchison County.

He was a farmer who pioneered in taking business methods to the farm. On his holdings of approximately 25,000 acres he directed the work of 300 men and 700 teams.

"King of Corn and Cattle."

A "king of corn and cattle." That was his title at home and abroad. He was at one time the largest individual grower of corn in the world.

He and his wife gave $395,000 to Tarkio college, launching it safely as one of the leading educational institutions of Northwest Missouri. The Rankins gave approximately ¼ million dollars to the New World religious movement.

The Rankin holdings were incorporated under the name of the Rankin Farms. This incorporation at the time of Mr. Rankin's death included the stock of the Midland Plow Factory, First National Bank, Tarkio Electric and Water Company and Auditorium building in addition to the land.

Deaths in the family have caused the breaking up of the estate.

Final Grain Review.

Chicago, April 2.—General lack of interest, coupled with fairly heavy receipts sent corn futures sharply lower today. Trading was dull in all pits and wheat and oats showed little change most of the session.

Profit-taking started by weakness in wheat caused the decline. Trading was dull in all pits, however, and the changes in wheat and oats were small.

Final figures: Wheat 1-8 to 3-8 lower; corn 1 5-8 to 2 1-8 off and oats unchanged. Provisions closed about steady.

Provisions were working lower from an early bulge. There was practically no news in the corn pit and the decline was due to general slackening of buying power. Receipts were 219 cars, which depressed the cash market ½c and caused a corresponding dip in futures. Weather over the belt was clear and springlike.

Wheat opened with cautious trading, most operators awaiting the private winter crop reports due later in the day. They were found to be bullish, but the news was conceded to have been discounted by recent advanes.

There was a consequent dip in prices followed by a quiet rally. Receipts were 57 cars and cash wheat held unchanged. Export business was at a standstill.

Oats was technically weak, principally on the return of good weather for sowing the new crop. Prices however, showed little change all day and the session was very dull. Receipts totaled 82 cars and the cash market was unchanged to ½c lower.

D. A. R. BLACK LIST ALLEGED

DIVIDED VIEWS ON NAVAL BUILDING PROGRAM BLAMED.

Y. W. C. A IS NAMED

Member of Organization Makes Announcement; Says Those Who Made List Irresponsible.

Boston, April 2.—A blacklist containing the names of many national notables alleged to have been barred as speakers before the Daughters of the American Revolution because of supposed communistic and pacifistic leanings, has been made public here.

The names were given out by Mrs. Helen Tufts Baillie of the Somerville Chapter following a speech before the Boston Ethical Society yesterday on "Patrioteers and Blacklists."

Bishop William Anderson and President Mary E. Woolley of Mount Holyoke College were among the most distinguished persons whose names appeared in the blacklist.

Y. M. C. A. Is Out.

Several organizations, including the Y. M. C. A., and Y. W. C. A., were listed. Mrs. T. Bailie declared that any one known to be associated with any of the organizations named was not permitted to address D. A. R. gatherings on the ground that they had radical, socialistic, communistic, or pacifistic sympathies.

"Those who made up this list are thoroughly irresponsible, stifling everybody who is likely to be progressive or tending to free speech and thought," declared Mrs. Bailie, who is a direct descendant of Anne Adams Tufts, Revolutionary heroine.

Mrs. Bailie said she became interested in the black list because two Unitarian theological schools, Meadville and Berkeley Divinity schools, had been barred as socialistic and communistic organizations.

Name Clarence Darrow.

Among the individuals named in the blacklist made public by Mrs. Bailie were Clarence Darrow, Rabbi Harry Levi, Miss Anna Louise Strong, writer; Dean Roscoe Pound of Harvard Law School, E. Talmadge Root, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Federation of Churches, William Allen White, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, Dr. David Starr Jordan, Professor Felix Frankurter of Harvard Law School, W. E. Dubois, Negro essayist; Alfred Baker Lewis, the Rev. George Lyman Paine, Judge George W. Anderson, Norman Angell, political writer; Norman Hapgood, and Mrs. Florence Luscomb, member of the International Ladies' Garment Makers Union.

Organizations mentioned were the Twentieth Century Club of Boston, National Catholic Welfard Council, National Child Labor Committee, Wellesley ollege Forum, Yale Liberal Club, Radcliffe Liberal Club, Harvard Student Liberal League, International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, Council of Jewish Women, National League of Women Voters, and American Association of University Women.

Brookhart Protests.

Washington, April 2—Senator Brookhart, Representative, Iowa, protested to the Senate today against "tactics of the D. A. R., in blacklisting those opposed to the government's naval building program."

Brookhart inserted in the record a newspaper dispatch from Boston charging that he was one of those on the black list.

Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau, president general of the D. A. R., approved the action of the Massachusetts organization in having a black list. She explained it was a state matter entirely and that D. A. R. leaders in Massachusetts have a right to advise their chapters for or against public speakers.

Mrs. Brosseau said Mrs. Bailie's attack on the D. A. R. state black list, was an indirect attack on the national D. A. R., for its support of the navy bill.

FIGHT ON FOR FARM RELIEF

DRIFT AWAY FROM ISSUE SEEN BY MEMBERS OF FARM BLOC.

NORRIS VOTE TUESDAY

Friends of Nebraskan Believe If He Can Swing Wisconsin He Will Be Potential Candidate.

Washington, April 2.—The fight for the equalization fee system of farm relief was opened in the Senate today by Senator James W. Watson, Indiana, presidential candidate, who demanded passage of the pending McNary-Haugen bill.

The equalization fee proposal in the bill is the only sound and practical means of dealing with surplus farm products except a direct subsidy from the treasury, Watson said.

"Some say the farmers do not want this bill," Watson said. "But during all the years of consideration of the equalization fee plan, not a single farm organization has appeared in either house of congress against the measure.

"The farmers do not want a subsidy. The very suggestion is unthinkable to the American mind."

"To deny the farmers the McNary-Haugen bill with its equalization fee is to deny them the benefits of the protective system," Watson continued. "And let me warn you that any man assumes a grave responsibility indeed when he takes the position that farmers should be denied an opportunity to enjoy the American standards of living and alone of all of our major groups must be submerged to levels of prevailing in less fortunate lands."

See Drift From Issues.

Washington, April 2.—Members of the farm bloc are planning to break forth politically now in an effort to stop what they see as a drift away from their issues in the Presidential campaign.

A fight for the McNary-Haugen farm bill, similar to that vetoed last session, will open in the Senate today.

Tomorrow Senator Norris, Presidential candidate of the western LaFollette group, is to go before Republican voters in the Wisconsin primary seeking the twenty-six delegates of that state.

Wednesday, friends of Frank Lowden of Illinois, a McNary-Haugen bill sympathizer, are to meet at Columbus, Ohio, with friends of the late Senator Willis, to ascertain if the Willis and anti-Hoover strength is now to be rallied around the former Illinois governor.

A week from Tuesday Norris is to be voted upon as a farm bloc Presidential candidate by the Republican primary voters of his own state, Nebraska.

The farm bill—slightly modified but still containing the disputed equalization fee system—is certain to pass the Senate within a week or ten days. Farm leaders are planning to arrange the debate so that the Senate action will draw public attention and have political effect.

They believe, further, that if Norris can win most of the delegates in Wisconsin his candidacy will be taken more seriously. If, in addition, he can get the nineteen delegates to his own state, as is expected, he would go into the convention with forty-five votes, enough to be reckoned with by any candidate near the nomination.

The meeting at Columbus has been called so that Willis' friends can discuss the political situation they must meet because of his death. Willis' name will go before the voters in the primary April 24 just as if he were alive. Of his delegates, thirty-four are pledged to Lowden as second choice, eight to Senator Curtis of Kansas, nine to Col. George Fisher and three alternates to Senator Watson of Indiana. Ordinarily they would, if elected, revert to their second choices because of Willis' death.

Some of Willis' friends wanted Vice President Dawes to take up the fight against Secretary of Commerce Hoover for the Ohio delegation. Dawes, however, has announced he is not a candidate and is not inclined to change his mind because of the present situation.

He could not enter actively into the fight because the Ohio law would prevent him from being listed as a candidate, his friends say.

It is expected, therefore, that Lowden who is a close friend of Dawes will in some degree carry on the Willis fight. The farm bloc leaders believe their cause will be aided thereby.

BEARCATS ARE THIRD IN ST. LOUIS RELAY

Local Teachers College Sprinters Hold Thirty-Yard Advantage Until One Man Falls.

Running a perfect race until misfortune set them back in the third lap, the four men comprising the relay team of the State Teachers College, dropped from first to third place in the National A. A. U. indoor track meet at St. Louis, Saturday, in the 1200 yard relay event.

Cecil Smith and Frank Daniels both went to the semi-finals in the 50 yard dash, where they were eliminated. Smith ran this distance in 5.3 the same time in which he ran it at the Kansas City meet in February. This was the time in which the finals of the race at St. Louis was won.

In the relay Smith and Daniels led off in the first two laps to gain a 30-yard advantage. This was overcome in the third lap when Maryville suffered an unfortunate turn, and two opponents stepped past the local men.

Westminster won first, McKendree, second, Maryville, third, and Washington University, St. Louis, fourth. The other teams finishing were Rolla Miners, Rolla, Mo., St. Louis University.

Bronze medals will be awarded the Maryville men.

The next meet for the Maryville tracksters will be the Kansas relays, April 21.

On April 28 the State Teachers College will enter a team in the medley event at the Drake relays, where they once won first in the event.
